

Angela Kreps

“Helping people become the best version of themselves so they can achieve extraordinary results is what fills my bucket and drives me every day to break records and deliver results valued by my teammates, clients, family and friends.”
~ Angela Kreps

Helping Make A Difference By Making Connections

My career successes as a bioscience industry CEO, a global life science CRO executive, and Fortune 300 sales leader are a result of connecting with people and building mutually rewarding relationships. Much like the African proverb - If you want to go fast, go alone. If you want to go far, go together.

Developing a network of good people doing great things makes me feel grateful for many mentors who challenged me & held me accountable. My current goal is to pay it forward & make connections that can help make a difference for others.

What I Do as a Connector & Coach

- I work with achievers to develop outcomes-based plans
- I open my network, and leverage my experience with positive reframing and career pivot strategies
- 90% of clients I coached during 2014-2021 met or exceeded their goals
- More than half of my coaching clients during 2014-2021 set new, all-time company records for revenue and/or profitability

Introductions

I want to meet executives and achievers. An ideal time to meet is at a transition, such as a job change -- or when something difficult happens. I might help when thinking about or planning a change, such as a career pivot or a life status change.

To introduce me, you can copy and paste this:

Angela is a CEO and bioscience executive who is a coach & connector at a fee-only wealth management firm, Aspyre Wealth Partners. Angela leverages her experiences & network to help plan and navigate change, especially changes that impact earnings potential. She helps people find an ideal fit for what's next in life.
